

Chinese Woman Diplomat to Bring
Proposal for World GovernmentHilda Yen Escaped From Occupied China Wherein
She Experienced War.

Aviatix Flies Everywhere

Young Pilot Has Seen Diplomatic
Service in Moscow, Berlin,
Paris, Copenhagen.

"Hilda Yen has seen and tasted war in its most concentrated form and has lived subsequently eight months in occupied territory."

Those words describe the Chinese woman who is coming to the campus next week—February 17—to speak at 8:15 in the auditorium of the Administration building on "A Chinese Proposal for World Government." The lecture is one of the major entertainments of the year.

Miss Yen is peculiarly fitted to speak on a topic of such magnitude as she has set herself. Born in China, she has had her formal education in the United States as well as in her native land; and she has studied also in Europe. Her travels have been extensive. She has lived in Europe for two years, in Russia for one year, and in the United States for eight years. She has made the trip from Vladivostok across Siberia to France, and has gone from the Scandinavian countries through the Baltics and the Ukraine to the Caspian Sea. She knows the Philippine Islands, Bali, Java, the Malay peninsula, and India. She has attended many international conferences. From the wealth of her knowledge and experience she should have something of importance to say.

The woman from the Orient has not led the sheltered life of many of the Chinese women. Miss Yen is an aviatix. It was in Italy that she received her solo license, and in 1938 she received her advanced pilot's license in the United States. She has flown over five continents.

In diplomatic circles the world over, Miss Yen is known. She was a member of the Diplomatic Corps in Moscow and hostess at the Chinese Embassy there during 1935-36. Previously she had been a member of the Chinese Diplomatic Corps in Paris, London, Rome, Berlin, and Copenhagen. She was a delegate to the League of Nations in 1936 and 1937. Recently she was a delegate to the Institute of Pacific Relations held in Canada.

Miss Yen's picture shows her as an alert, wide-awake young woman. She possesses poise and dignity from the many social experiences she has had. She attended the Court Ball in Copenhagen and the Coronation Ball in Buckingham Palace.

Yet her life has its grim side, for she was caught in the Japanese occupation of Hong Kong and saw there the horrors of war. Her own escape from occupied territory after eight months of personal suffering was highly adventurous. She is brave as well as experienced.

Cadet Spangler Is
Sculpturing FigureFormer Student Works on Full-Length Figure in Free Moments.

Aviation Cadet Morris Spangler is now spending his few free minutes in sculpturing a full-length figure. He is doing all his preliminary work in clay and expects to be some time yet on this phase. Cameras are not allowed on the grounds at Iowa City where he is stationed; thus he cannot have a photograph made of this latest work.

Last year while stationed at Liberty, Missouri, Mr. Spangler completed the bust of a young woman. The thrown back head with its graceful lines of workmanship was the subject of a great deal of publicity there and was written up at length in the William Jewell paper.

His first interest in sculpture began in the College Humanities class when he showed Dr. Dow a small carving he had made of his own head. She sent him to Miss DeLuce in the Fine Arts Department. Miss DeLuce helped him to make a larger carving and a plaster cast. Encouraged by Miss DeLuce he continued with carving and sculpture.

One day while looking at a "Reader's Digest" he saw a small picture of Walt Whitman. Looking at this picture, he fashioned a bust and later a plaster cast of the great poet.

After receiving a picture of the work he had done at Liberty, Dr. Dow said she believed he showed great promise and with the proper encouragement would make a name for himself.

The federal public debt is expected to reach 210 billion dollars on June 30, 1944.

County Superintendents
Hold All-Day Conference

County superintendents from the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College district met on Monday of this week in the auditorium of the Horace Mann Laboratory School for an all-day conference. J. A. Boucher, president of the Northwest Missouri County Superintendents' Organization, presided and President Lamkin gave the address of welcome.

The morning session was devoted to discussion of three topics, led respectively by William F. Tompkins, state supervisor; W. H. Burr, county superintendent of Nodaway county; and G. Frank Smith, county superintendent of Holt county. The topics were "Law and Policies Affecting the Teachers and School Boards"; "If Rural Schools are to continue, what can be done to influence capable teachers to fill them?" "Significant Opportunities of the County School Superintendents." Discussions were limited to twenty minutes and a period for questions followed.

At the afternoon session three other topics were discussed: "Factors Insuring the Success of a County Superintendent's Work," "In-service Training Program That Should Be Encouraged by School Boards as Well as the County Superintendents and the State Department," "Post War Planning for the Rural School—What Can and Should Be Done." They were led, respectively, by Earle S. Teegarden, state supervisor; Leonard Jones, county superintendent of Buchanan county; J. W. Jones, dean of the faculty of the College.

Miss Edna Barnes of Greenfield, Iowa, county superintendent of Adair county, gave a summary of the day's activities.

Mr. Leslie Somerville of the College faculty was in charge of details of the conference.

Mr. Winston Churchill
Will Be Lecture Topic

Next week's assembly speaker will be Louis J. Alber, business man, world traveler, and author. His subject will be "The Irresistible Winston Churchill."

After an acquaintance of more than twenty years with England's Prime Minister, Mr. Alber is touring the United States giving his impressions of that man who is under the scrutiny of the whole world. It has not been announced what point of view Mr. Alber is taking toward Mr. Churchill beyond the fact that he refers to him as "a many-sided man with blitzkrieg in his make-up." The fact that Mr. Alber has not only known Mr. Churchill long and intimately but has lived with him for four months gives promise that he should be able to speak with authority as to character and personality.

Private Robert Mitchell, a graduate of the College, has completed his basic training and is now in a clerical school at Camp Fanning, Texas.

To Recall His Birthday

Towering over the heads of assembly goers, a tall benign figure stands relaxed, one finger caught in the lapel of his coat. This man of the kindly manner is most familiarly known as "Honest Abe," and the plaster cast of him which stands before the auditorium was a gift of the class of 1924.

With the thoughts of Lincoln immediately come to mind a wealth of homely little stories and clever anecdotes. He typifies America; he is America's hero. To youth his spectacular climb "from log cabin to White House" is a model of opportunity in a free land. To those in trouble, his common-sense wisdom points the way to solution of difficulties. To the writer, he is the master of the most forceful English. But most of all, he is just the embodiment of what the American people consider an ideal man.

It would perhaps be possible to visualize Lincoln as he was when he won the hearts of the nation, but that is unnecessary, for the magnificent sculpturing of Augustus St. Gaudens has caught the man in an admirably characteristic pose and expression. The original of this status is cast in bronze and stands in Lincoln Park in Chicago. Yes, this statue is an everlasting reminder and challenge of that which may be.

Abend's Book Is
Program SubjectDr. Harry G. Dildine Gives
Review Before Maryville
Chapter AAUP.

Dr. Harry G. Dildine of the Social Science department was the speaker at the January meeting of the Maryville chapter of the American Association of University Professors, held at the home of Dr. Anna M. Painter, January 25, at seven-thirty o'clock. He spoke on Hallett Abend's book, "My Life in China, 1926-41."

The speaker, who himself lived in China for 19 years, leaving there just about the time Mr. Abend begins his life in China, was able to bring to his audience a vivid personal interpretation of the book. Dr. Dildine says that he and Mr. Abend moved in a different society and therefore would have seen life differently.

The book, Dr. Dildine said, is full of the experiences of Mr. Abend during the time he was a newspaper man in China. The man seems to have managed to get hold of much information which he seems to think is known to him before the world has discovered the facts. Dr. Dildine suggested that a good sub-title for the book would be "I Told You So." Mr. Abend is constantly implying that things would have been different if his reports had been made proper use of.

Mr. Abend claims in his book, Dr. Dildine said, that he knew two years before Pearl Harbor and told it that the Japanese would strike in Honolulu or in Panama. He says that he has known by 1941 that it would be in Honolulu. Dr. Dildine gave the impression that Mr. Abend believes that proper use of his disclosures were not made by the government.

Dr. Painter, president of the Maryville chapter of the A.A.U.P., announced the following committee chairmen: Membership, Dr. Reven S. DeJarnette; publicity, Miss Matile M. Dykes; time and place of meetings, Miss Inez Lewis; honorees, Miss Olive S. DeLuce; public relations, Dr. Ruth Lowery; programs, Dr. Frank Horsfall.

Music Students Present
Program at Assembly

Music was the thing at assembly on Wednesday, February 2. President Lamkin started off the assembly program, reading Psalm CXXI and giving the morning prayer. Following this, the Women's Vocal Ensemble sang "When Children Pray," by Beatrice Penner and "The Lord's Prayer," by Albert H. Malotte. The women who sang in the ensemble were Jodie Montgomery, Frances Pfander Virginia Pfander, Mary Ellen Tebow, Margaret Baker, Martha Polsey, and Emma Ruth Kendall. Miss Marian J. Kerr is the director.

Two piano solos by W. David Noakes followed the vocal ensemble. The first of the solos consisted of four sketches from "Kaleidoscope" by Eugene Goossens; "Good Morning," "The Hurdy-Gurdy Man," "The Rocking Horse," and "Punch and Judy Show." "Valchik" by Mokrejs was Mr. Noakes's second number.

The next group of numbers on the program were three selections played by the violin quartet under the direction of Miss Ruth Nelson. "Ave Verum" by Mozart, "Minuet" from "Don Juan" by Mozart-Hoffman, and "The Swallows" by Serradell-Coburn were the selections played. Mary Ellen Tebow, Ruth Ann Scott, Marjorie Jorgenson, and Ruth McDowell are the quartet, although at the assembly Miss Nelson took Miss Scott's place since Miss Scott was ill.

"Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal" by Roger Quilter, and "In a Persian Garden" by Liza Lehmann, were sung by Leland Piney, tenor, with David Noakes as accompanist.

The program again shifted from vocal to instrumental music with the brass quartet playing "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" by Foster-Lake, and "Pizzicato Polka" by Strauss-Gaul. Members of the quartet are Gordon Cloyd, cornet; C. J. Keldel, cornet; George Fromknecht, French horn; and J. B. Ludtke, baritone. The director is Mr. Virgil Parman.

Lewis Ament, violinist, played two movements from "Zigeunerweisen" (Gypsy Airs) by Sarasate. Betty McPherson was his accompanist.

The last group of numbers on the program were given by the male

Next Lecturer on February Series
Is Miss MillikanDr. Ashton From Kansas to Be Closing Speaker; Will
Address A. A. U. P.

Miss Chloe E. Millikan, director of the nursery school and the kindergarten-primary department of the College, will speak next Sunday afternoon at the Horace Mann auditorium on "Today's Children—Tomorrow's Hope." The lecture, the third of the February Lectures Series, will be given at four o'clock and is open to the public.

The speaker brings to her lecture long training and experience in work with children. She did her undergraduate work in the teachers' college at Warrensburg and took her M. A. degree from Teachers College, Columbia University.

She has continued graduate study in the University of Chicago, Teachers College Columbia University, and Leland Stanford University. In 1929 she went with a group of people from Teachers College Columbia on a trip to Europe to study primary education in eleven different countries.

The experience of Miss Millikan in teaching began in supervision and teaching in the grades. She taught in the Kansas City Teachers College before coming to Maryville. She has written and published one book, "Kindergarten and Primary Activities Based on Community Living."

Miss Millikan's thesis for her lecture on Sunday is that the child of today is the citizen of tomorrow and that what is done for him today determines what kind of citizen he is going to be. She will look at what is happening to children today in the war period and will show that disciplines and understandings must be established today if there is to be any hope for the future.

Dr. John W. Ashton, professor of English literature at the University of Kansas and head of the department, will close the lecture series with his paper on "Richard III: Tudor Englishman." His lecture will be given at four o'clock on Sunday afternoon, February 20, in the Horace Mann auditorium.

Dr. Ashton, who received his Doctor of Philosophy degree from Leland Stanford University, was at the University of Iowa before going to Kansas. He is a specialist in sixteenth century literature. He has written articles for professional magazines.

Following his lecture, Dr. Ashton has been invited to be the guest of the Maryville chapter of the American Association of University Professors and to address them.

Diagrams of a typical cruiser, destroyer, destroyer escort, aircraft carrier, submarine, and battleship are on the walls of the second floor of the Administration Building.

These diagrams have come from the Bureau of Ships of the Navy Department and give the onlooker an idea what a ship such as an aircraft carrier is like in its make-up. They are of interest to the civilian students just as well as to the apprentice seamen.

Dr. Mehus and His

With Government.

Dr. O. Myking Mehus and his children were Maryville visitors last week-end. Dr. Mehus was formerly a member of the faculty of the Social Science department. He left the College to become president of the state teachers' college at Winona, Minnesota.

Dr. Mehus is now Vocational Rehabilitation Officer for the Government, with headquarters in the Board of Trade Building in Kansas City. He says that a staff of fifty persons is expected to be necessary to handle the work of the office.

Places Disabled Men.

Placing disabled men of the service in training is the work which Dr. Mehus has in his charge. Talking of his work, Dr. Mehus said that some of the men would be put into trade schools and some would be sent to college. Each man who comes under his jurisdiction will be given tests and interviews to determine his interests and abilities. On the basis of what is discovered, efforts will be made to put the man into the kind of training best suited to make him a successful citizen.

"Disabled men are being discharged now at the rate of 75,000 a month," Dr. Mehus said. "Over a million have already been discharged. Of this number discharged from active duty, 35,000 are in veterans' hospitals."

Dorothy Mehus Teaches. Miss Dorothy Mehus, who was with her father in Maryville, is teaching in a federal Indian school at Roosevelt, South Dakota. She is a graduate of the Horace Mann high school. She took her B. S. in education last spring from the teachers' college at Winona.

Donald Mehus, who was also a student at the Horace Mann school, is now in the army and located at Waco, Texas, at Baylor university. He was on furlough and accompanied his father to Maryville.

Orion, the youngest son, who lives with his father in Kansas City, was also with his father in Maryville. He is a junior in the West Port High School in Kansas City. He studies violin and his father says, "plays like anything." Orion has been studying violin since he was a very small boy. During the fall semester, this young man was a student at the high school in Excelsior Springs, where he was voted "the outstanding citizen in the Junior class."

Two Faculty Babies
Make Their Arrival

Two new faculty babies have made their arrival. Dr. and Mrs. J. Richard Wilmette announce the birth of John Richard, Jr., on January 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryland Milner announce the birth of James Ryland on February 3. The baby son is named for his father and the twin brother of the father.

Cost of interest on the public debt is expected to reach three billion dollars this fiscal year.

Rehearsals for Musical Revue Are Bringing Forward College Talents

"The skits ought to be breath-taking," said Yeoman Jack Budnick in discussing the forthcoming Musical Revue to be presented in the College Auditorium at exactly 8:15 o'clock, Friday evening, February 11. He went on to comment upon the variety of talent that is being discovered as students prepare for the all-student production of "Campus Lights of 1944." More than one hundred people make up the cast for the show, which will provide entertainment of all types. To put it in the words of Yeoman Budnick, who is directing the performance, it will range "from melodrama to the latest in music."

Ensign Davis Tells
Assembly of NavySpeaker Has Been in Navy
Seventeen Years; Gives
Advice to V-12 Men.

"We had been out two months and were down to dehydrated potatoes and carrots," said Ensign C. D. Davis, recently returned from the Pacific, in speaking before the College assembly, January 26.

His ship was in enemy waters when suddenly a Jap saw it and let go a torpedo. When it struck, the concussion blew out the electrical controls rendering them helpless on the water. Several of the boys took their lives in their hands and miraculously patched the wiring. They limped home without losing a single man.

"In December of 1941 right after Pearl Harbor we had only three carriers, a few cruisers, and a few destroyers in the Pacific," Ensign Davis said. "By Christmas we were on the way to Wake." The valiant marines on Wake had only six fighter planes, and they managed to keep one plane in the air, as a result of continual patching. Ensign Davis, aboard the ship headed for Wake with reinforcements, recounted the reception of the order to turn back. Upon delivery of the message two commanding officers of the squadron of fighters obeyed the command with tears running down their cheeks. One of them even threw his hat on the deck and jumped on it. "They knew what the situation was at Wake," he said. "We all knew what it was. We did not go into Wake, because the odds were against us and we could not afford the loss."

Ensign Davis has been in the Navy 17 years and has spent this time principally in China, the South Seas, and the East Balkans.

"The Americans," he said, "are prone to believe themselves different. I want to tell you, all these people regardless of where they are or what they are, are just like Americans."

In Shanghai when the Japs were moving in, Ensign Davis had a preview of the Japs. "They were terrible," he said. "They flew low, strafing every thing in sight, and it wasn't a mistake either. Don't let anybody kid you. Those Japs are good."

Touching the subject of the duties of the people here at home, he gave the V-12 boys a few solid bits of advice:

"You have been picked to be leaders. Remember this: Before you can be a leader you must be able to be led. You are going to depend on your men as much as they depend upon you."

To the civilians, he said: "Write letters and buy bonds. Above all, be cheerful. Whatever you have to do, do it cheerfully."

Social Science Rooms
Are Made Laboratory

Rooms 326 and 327 are being transformed into a Social Science Laboratory. Room 326 is being converted into a projection room for showing slides and films.

The rooms are to be furnished with various visual and auditory aids to be used by the students who are doing practice teaching at the Horace Mann laboratory school. Two hundred seventy-five slides have been secured for this purpose. New sets of maps and records of such addresses as that of the President's declaration of war on Japan are to be secured.

The purpose of the room, according to Dr. Julian C. Aldrich, head of the Social Science department, is to aid in preparing social science teachers to be well qualified in the use of various visual and auditory materials to improve the quality of teaching social science in the schools of Missouri.

Dr. H. A. May, Husband of Late Lillian James, Dies

News has reached Maryville of the death of Dr. H. A. May of Washington, Missouri, January 31. Dr. May was the husband of the former Miss Lillian James, who died three years ago.

Mrs. May was the daughter of Reverend O. C. James of Maryville and the sister of the former member of the faculty, Miss Minnie James, who is now Mrs. Jonathan Orider of near Skidmore.

Cost of interest on the public debt is expected to reach three billion dollars this fiscal year.

Alumna of College
Develops "Sealer"Ilah Miller Fuller Makes
Name for Herself in Chemistry Field.

Majoring in chemistry under the late M. W. Wilson of the chemistry department of the College and taking a position in the engineering test laboratory of the Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation at San Diego, California, when her husband went over seas, Mrs. Gerald Fuller, who was formerly Miss Ilah Miller, has succeeded in finding a material for sealing fuel tanks in airplanes, especially cargo planes.

After the chemists in the laboratory had tested from fifty to a hundred materials for sealing and had failed to find any that proved satisfactory, Chief Chemist T. J. Galvin had an idea that a certain combination of materials might produce a sealing material. He set his assistants to work on the problem. Mrs. Fuller was interested and was the first to succeed in making a material that approached what they were seeking. She continued with her experiments, being given free rein by her chief. In three or four weeks she had a material that seemed to be satisfactory.

About the middle of September Mrs. Fuller began an elaborate series of tests. First she tested the material on panels and then on various test tanks. Finally she secured a plane and applied the material to the inside of the tanks, which were then tested in use. The material proved successful.

The next step was a contract with the Prestite Engineering Company of St. Louis to make the material so that it can be put into use at once.

Just last week the Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation sent Mrs. Fuller by plane to St. Louis to give the Prestite company all the information she could about the material. She had done all of the supervising of tests and had completed the development of the material.

Without sacrificing editorial independence or their right to make independent judgments, editors and staff members of this newspaper agree to unite with all college newspapers of the nation to support, wholeheartedly and by every means at their command, the government of the United States in the war effort, to the end the college press of the nation may be a united voice for Victory.

THE COLLEGE OATH
"We will never bring disgrace to this, our College, by any act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the College. We will respect and obey the College laws and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in others. We will transmit this College to those who come after us, greater, better, and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

CAMPUS PEP CLUBS
The pep clubs on the campus rarely receive the commendation which they deserve. Under the direction of the cheerleaders they lead the on-lookers of the game in organized cheering for the team and in bolstering morale of the Bearcats; not only that, but during the half time of several games, the stunts have been performed by either the Barkatze or the Green and White Peppers. Each club has unique uniforms of the colors of the College. Together the organizations cheer for the Bearcats and show respect for the opponents. The pep groups clap not only for the man coming off the court for the College team but for each man who comes off for the opposing team. This shows respect for that player's merits and is a commendable act.

The job of the cheerleaders is not an easy one but they have done it well and deserve their share of the credit.

SOUTH AFRICA SPEAKS
An editorial at the beginning of a magazine which has come from half way around the world, brings out the very same problems which are facing education right here at the College. It is the 1943 magazine of Natal University College at Pietermaritzburg, Natal, South Africa, which has come to the Northwest Missourian office. The editorial says that college years should mean "exhilaration of experiment, enthusiasm and wide interests, the development of one's personality to the fullness of maturity," but that war has placed restraints on the student. Now he is forbidden by "limitations of time and opportunity, by the restriction of his contacts, and by temperamental reaction, from developing himself to the fullest as an individual and a personality." "We chose our part in the nation's play—and the choice spelt application and a quiet determination," says the student editorial when speaking of the fact that the students who are well aware of the war and its demands are continuing their studies in a time of national effort.

Quotable Quotes
"The most important message for this year, 1944, was heard by a small group of British and American correspondents as 1943 faded into the history books. Said invasion Commanding General Eisenhower, 'The only thing needed for us to win the European war in 1944 is for every man and woman all the way from the front line to the remotest hamlet of our two countries to do his or her full duty!' Let us not fail!—Brown and White, Lohigh University.

"It is impossible to separate Nazis and the German people. I don't like our appeals that Germany repudiate her leaders, because if the German people again change their government just to get an easy peace, we won't convince them that war doesn't pay. If that happens we may almost as well have lost the war," said the University of Texas' professor of government, Dr. John L. McCham, recently.
"Across the Atlantic in the British Isles the Yanks are trying to fit American slang into the dignified game of cricket. Members of the U. S. Eighth Air Force recently razed batters and bowlers in the best Bronx manner. Such razzing is not cricket, say the English, who prefer a polite hand-clapping to the cheer and jeer. Which influence will prevail? Will baseball audience become sequestered or will cricket fans learn to shout, 'Better duck, you jerk, here comes the bottle!'—Student Life, Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.

THE END—AND THE BEGINNING
Again the end of a semester is in sight. How familiar is the thought! It is thus that many people think and work to a certain point in the future. For then the old will be done with, and the new begun. The anticipation is great, and the hope is that the realization will be greater. At this moment there are a few more days to work, to put forth an effort, and then there comes a respite and a thinking no more of such things as have occupied the mind before. A break in the routine will come. The end of a definite period, a semester, will be reached, and a new beginning, a new semester, started.

But there is never a really an end to a thing. There is only a change. True, a break in the routine occurs. Moreover it occurs periodically. The tension of a routine is relaxed for a time, but the routine itself is never cast aside. The details may be changed, and as a result the working of them seems new and refreshing. But the basic routine is not altered. The pattern is old. Again an effort must be made, new things learned, old things relearned, plans completed, ideas carried forward. As a stream flows forever onward with an undeniable push while the ripples break and flash on the surface, so life moves forever forward with a steady and lusty power while the details break and shift and change on the surface of living.

People have the propensity for dividing life into certain labeled periods. The periods may differ in length, of years and in labels, as the individual differs, but essentially they narrow down to three: the beginning, or the learning; the middle, or the working; the end, or the resting. Simple, but its very simplicity is reassuring. One says, "First, I will secure an education. I will set aside this definite time for learning. Next, I will go out into the world and earn my living. I will devote myself to work. I will establish a home and rear my children and become a respected citizen. Last, I will retire from the noisome activity of the world and enjoy the rewards of my toil."

But such a division is misleading and the idea behind it a fallacy. One cannot arbitrarily cut his life into small sections, each to be lived by itself and then laid aside. In the first place, one cannot say that an education is obtained at a certain time and then that is the end of it. One cannot say, "This is when I began my education and this is when I ended it." Physical environment and mental apathy are not important enough to limit the process of learning. Only birth and death should be its limits for the person. All along the way information and opinions are acquired, manners of reasoning found, basic principles and ideas learned. Once the process of learning starts, it continues. The pattern does not break.

In the second place, work cannot be set aside for all to be done at one time. Every one, no doubt, really recognizes and agrees to this fact. All of life is made up of working. Even in a period of intensive learning, a time of definite, regulated education, work must be done. A life merits little without it. The routine must go on.

In the third place, and one is constrained to note that it is in the third place, all the rewards do not come when all the work is done. The idea is preposterous. Rewards must be enjoyed as they come. Some may come more slowly than others. One may despair of ever having some, but surely they come back one by one. The pattern continues.

Life goes on. Sometimes with great and sudden surges, and sometimes with slow and almost unseasoned advance; but always it goes on. One may be suddenly shaken out of one's familiar life and may be lost for a time seeking to become adjusted to the new set of details confronting one. But underneath all the change of superficial routine the pattern of life continues unbroken, and unshaken.

So with the end of the semester some will leave the familiar details and working of school. They may think it the end of the first section of their life, the end of the educational period. But it is not. It is only the beginning. The years spent in intensive learning give merely a foundation, not an end, for all the learning possible in life. There are some who will go into a period of more intensified learning than they have had. For them this foregoing period is a foundation too, and how well that foundation will endure rests with how well they have seen and followed the pattern of life. Their success depends upon understanding and work. For others the end of the semester means that, soon after, a new one begins, bringing with it details much the same as in the former one. It is for them to realize that through it all, the pattern endures. Life moves forward.

Rich Grumble More at Rationing, Says Survey
NEW ORLEANS, LA.—(ACP)—It's the caviar and truffles crowd, not the red beans and rice folks, who have the most complaints about rationing.
That is the conclusion 17 Newcomb College students have drawn after knocking at doors all over New Orleans to find from housewives what difference point rationing has made in their choice of foods. The survey results were reported in The Tulane Hullahaloo.
Conducted under the direction of Miss Elizabeth K. Nottingham, assistant professor of sociology at Newcomb, the survey revealed that rationing has made very little change in the eating habits of lower income groups, but that higher income groups, accustomed to more lavish diets, feel the cramp of rationing strongly.
"We found, in general, that people were eating more vegetables and less meat, and more fresh food and less canned food," Miss Nottingham pointed out. "Some people told us that they were 'meat-eaters' and so felt the hardships of rationing—but many also commented that they had sons in the Army and felt they had no right to complain about such minor hardships as rationing."
To make the survey, Miss Nottingham said, the girls visited every thirteenth house in designated blocks of each census tract in order to cover all income levels of the city. Only housewives were supposed to be included in the interviews.
"In one area—the French Quarter—we found it a bit difficult, most of the people eat in restaurants rather than at home," she said.

Convalescent Soldiers Have Portraits Painted
NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—(ACP)—Art professors at the College of New Rochelle are not confined to ivory towers in wartime. Rather, they are making an unusual and generous contribution to service morale.
The College of New Rochelle artists, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thorne Thompson and Mr. Robert Blattner, are members of a group of New Rochelle artists who are spending much of their spare time at a nearby military hospital making portraits of convalescent soldiers.
"The most impressive thing about the project," comments Mrs. Thompson, an instructor in design, "is the boost in morale which it gives to the men." Many of the men have been injured so badly that they are almost psychopathic cases. One soldier, for instance, wounded in action and facing an operation, was so dejected that he did not want to live. A very handsome portrait which made him resemble a movie actor brought him out of his depression and gave him a new interest in life. He is typical of the men, who, through portraits done by the artists "saw themselves as individuals again after being just small cogs in the huge machinery of war."
In addition to the hospital work, the artists also work on portraits at a New Rochelle Service Center where men and women members of the services come in for relaxation. It is characteristic of servicemen, Mr. Thompson said, to want to look more glamorous than they really are. So far, more than 1,000 portraits have been finished. These are finished drawings, not merely rough sketches—three hours' work crammed into one. The artists use charcoal and pastel as their media.
Victory Hut war stamps sales at the University of Southern California have totaled $8404.45 in the first three weeks.

Random Remarks
A rambling reporter conceived the idea of listening to random remarks without regard to context and jotting them down. Here is a collection. Take it for what it is worth. Can you identify your own remark?
"It has good funnies—they are all I ever read anyway."
"We're not together all the time."
"I say, I think it's a good story."
"The way it smacked, I know it hurt!"
"Did you just hear that one?"
"Only Dr. Hake and God knows how to regulate that clock—and God seems to have forgotten."
The rare book library on the Indiana University campus recently displayed a handbill with the words of the "Star Spangled Banner" which was originally called "Defense of Fort Mifflin." The original leaflets were circulated a few days after Francis Scott Key scribbled the words on the back of an envelope on the deck of the Minden, Indiana University obtained the broadside in May, 1943, by purchasing the Sweet Collection on the War of 1812.

The Stroller
Not long ago the library was bothered by a certain cat who insisted upon walking in at any hour. One day as Mr. Wells was escorting it out, a sailor went up to the main desk and asked, "Do you have mice?"
Evelyn Matter, in the true business manner, asked, "Who is it by?"
When Elizabeth Ann Davis wrote a Christmas letter to a former student now in the Army, she put her return on the envelope simply as E. A. Davis, which is the way "Lefty" (E. A.) Davis of the faculty always signs his name. The soldier read about half of the letter and could not imagine what "Lefty" was doing in English classes. Finally he looked at the signature at the end of the letter, and after that, he said, things began to make sense.
The Stroller has heard a lot of questions asked, but the one Roberta Wray asked Miss Franken the other day in class "takes the cake." When Miss Franken announced a "pop test" Bobby popped up with, "Do you want us to write a lot or to answer the question?"
Does Bill Moore look like a fellow to wear the nickname "Cutie"? The Stroller dropped into a popular lunch place downtown one evening and heard a young lady so address him.
The subject under discussion was "Names, Christian and Surnames." An English teacher remarked, "Girls are always wanting to change their names," and then wondered why the young men in the class laughed, for all she had in mind was the Elizabeth, Betty, Beth, Lizzie, Bette series, or the Dorothy, Dorothea, Dorothe, Dotty, Dottie, Dotte, Dot.
As the Stroller was passing the Home Management House recently he heard someone sing out, "Here's a chaser lounge for Miss Cozine!" The Stroller has been wondering what kind of lounge that might be.
The Dean is cocky this week because he thinks he made the same column with Walter Winchell. The Capaha Arrow referred to the Winchellism "two-ing around town" and to the college gag "coo-ed." The Dean claims "coo-ed" as his coinage.
The Stroller has been wanting to see an orchid ever since he heard about handing somebody an orchid. Well, he saw two at the Greek ball. Evidently somebody had been handing around orchids, for Sue Moore and Margie Chapman each had something they called orchids. Party!
The Stroller listened in on the editor of the Northwest Missourian when she called up 450 (look it up if you want to know whom she called). Said Esther Miller, the editor: "I believe Seaman Nease is going to be transferred to Shoemaker, California. Will you spell Shoemaker?"
Said the voice on the wire: SPELL it?
Said Esther: Yes. (Weakly).
Said the voice: CAPITAL S, h, o, e, m, a, k, e, r. Esther fainted then and when she revived she said, "Oh, I thought it would be spelled Schumacher or some other hard way."

Student Poll Brings Out Differences of Opinion
NEW ORLEANS — (ACP) — The question—whether Axis countries should be merely restrained or completely controlled by the Allies after the war—has a large majority of Loyola students in a quandary.
A student opinion poll at Loyola shows that seventy per cent of students in all colleges of the University are strictly against complete control of any nation in time of peace, regardless of how dangerous its form of government may prove to be. A remaining thirty per cent, however, argue that if only restraint is placed on a country, the people will take advantage of this fact, and the resulting situation will be another World War in a short time.
"I propose that the Axis countries be allowed to have their own rulers, but that these men be subordinate to representatives of our country," stated Carolyn Stier, junior.
Another student who holds that restraint on Axis countries is sufficient is Loly Lawson, sophomore, who believes "it is utterly impossible for the Allies to completely control all the enemy countries after the war, for only internal revolt would result. We want this peace to be a lasting one," she adds.
Numa Bertel, a freshman, holds that defeated nations should have complete liberty after the war. "If this is not the case," she says, "we would very definitely be inflicting upon them all the things we're fighting against. Nothing but slaves would be made of them. I therefore believe that they should be allowed to govern themselves with no other supervision but their own."
On the other hand, Anthony Carml, freshman, says, "A system of restraint will never work, for after a period of years, these countries will just rise up again. The Allies should enforce strict military rule upon these peoples for a period of years sufficiently long enough to enable them to get a taste of the democratic way of living. Children should be brought up according to religious ideals."
University of California Accepts Eighth Campus
BERKELEY, CAL.—(ACP) — The University of California is on the way to having its eighth campus. Plans are taking shape now for the incorporation of Santa Barbara State College into the University of California's statewide system.
The incorporation plans are in accordance with recent action by the State Legislature and the University Board of Regents.
In voting to accept the new campus, the Regents declared that it was not proposed to expand the instruction at Santa Barbara to the full curriculum offered at Berkeley or Los Angeles.
"The institution should be primarily an undergraduate institution, emphasizing, as it does now, the industrial arts, home economics, art, music, and teacher training, but at the same time giving a substantial general education," the Regents resolved.
University officials pointed out, however, that certain changes would probably be required to fit Santa Barbara into the structure of the statewide institution, and changes are being considered in such matters as admission requirements, faculty organization, degrees, and curricula.
Gifts to the University of Illinois during 1943 totaled $353,695. Eighty-three of the gifts, totaling $192,206, were for research, while the other 23 were for instruction, fellowships, and scholarships.
The University of Kansas dedicated its new $250,000 Military Science Building on December 22.

Clem Shively and Jerry Borg Reign

Navy Ball With Crowning of King and Queen Ends War Loan Drive.

Clem Shively of Hamilton, a freshman of the College, was crowned queen Friday night at the Navy Ball by Lieutenant Ralph K. Brown. Jerry Borg of Stratford, Iowa, was crowned king.

Each stamp and bond bought at the College by the students the preceding two weeks carried with it votes which were to be cast for the favorite candidates for king and queen. Total bond sales amounted to approximately $4500.

The dance was carried out in a typical naval atmosphere. On entering the S. S. Gymnasium each gentleman and his guest walked up the gangplank, saluted the flag and reported to Lieutenant Fagetti. Then they went down the receiving line and received their programs.

A blue false ceiling hung over the dancers. At the north end of the gymnasium on a curtain were stars and anchors. The walls of the gymnasium were painted to simulate ocean waves. Behind the Central Missouri State Teachers College dance band, which furnished the music, was an American flag.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Ralph K. Brown, Lieutenant and Mrs. Clarence Nystrom, and Miss Mary Beth Carpenter were the receiving line.

Tri Sigmas Entertain With Informal Party

Sigma Sigma Sigma had an informal party in the Bearcats' Den Saturday night, February 5, from 8 to 10:30 o'clock. During the evening members and their guests played cards and danced. Refreshments of potato chips, cookies, and cokes were served.

The invited faculty guests who attended were: Mrs. Norvel Sayler, Misses Winole Ann Carruth, Dorothy Truex, Bonnie Magill, and June Cozine, sponsor of the sorority.

The members and guests who attended were: Mona Alexander, Verne Bauer, Elaine Gorsuch, Virginia Pfander, Louise Gorsuch, Martha Poley, Edna Stephens, Jennie Moore, Helen Mundell, Vivian Wilson, Jean Gilpin, Mary Margaret Yates, Anna B. Allison, Mary Rose Gram, Patsy McDermott, Marjorie Gray, Helen Strong, Margie Chapman, Martha Lewis, Wren Stirling, Bea Goforth, Kenneth Cassat, Johnny Trump, Tom Boulay, George Frommknicht, Bernard Mick, John Housley, Robert Cosgrove, Gaylord Coleman, Floyd Parker, John Kelsey, Bernard Gram, James Tenpenny, Louis Bland, Harold Haynes, Don Hemmer, Paul Pierson, Elgin Allen, Charles Burns, and James Witthar.

Sigma Tau Gamma Has Initiation for Thirteen

The Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity held a formal initiation for thirteen men January 19. The new members are: William Aitken, Normandy, Missouri; Ray Aldrich, Annapolis, Nebraska; Elgin Allen, Hampton, Iowa; Joe Amad, St. Louis, Missouri; Gordon Anderson, West Bend, Iowa; William Armstrong, Normandy, Missouri; Eugene Conley, Nebraska City, Nebraska; Charles Crammer, Independence, Missouri; Robert Dagg, Glendale, California; Ralph Dadds, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa; John Warden, Carthage, Missouri; Bill Miller, Burlington Junction, Missouri; and Robert Fisher, Bedford, Iowa.

Of these men, Apprentice Seamen Conley, Crammer, Dadds, Warden, Aldrich, and Amad, expect to be transferred at the end of the semester. Mr. Miller and Mr. Fisher are expecting their call to the Army Air Corps soon.

A few of the older actives will also be transferred at the end of the semester. These men are: Bob Cosgrove, Norville Schrage, Kenneth Bays, Cecil Avery, and Jim Beach.

Vocational Agriculture Teachers Hold Conference

A vocational agriculture district conference was held at the College on Monday, January 31. The meeting was called by L. H. LaRue, district supervisor of agricultural education. Plans and objectives were discussed.

Attending were: F. L. Dunivin, Tarkio; Floyd Houghton, Maryville; W. E. Foster, Sheridan; Merle Crawford, Rock Port; Arthur Knight, Grant City; R. T. Wright, head of the agriculture department of the College; and R. T. Hubble, vocational agriculture teacher at Horace Mann High School.

Rear Admiral Visits Campus
Rear Admiral E. G. Morsell of the supply corps of the United States Navy was on the campus, Tuesday, February 8.

College Weddings

Kraus-Shannon

Miss Ethelyn Kraus of Oakland, California, and J. W. Shannon, a graduate of the College, were married January 23 in the chapel at Mills College, Oakland. After the ceremony, a reception was held and the couple left for Maryville, where they have been visiting Mr. Shannon's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Moore.

For the last fourteen months, Mr. Shannon has been in Managua, Nicaragua, with the United States engineering department on the Pan-American highway. He goes now to an assignment with the Bureau of Reclamation in Texas or California.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harness of Elmo announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their niece, Helen Harness, to Norval Wheeler of Kansas City. The wedding will take place the middle of February.

Miss Harness is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Harness and has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Harness for a number of years. She was graduated from the Elmo high school in 1943. Following a course in defense work at the College she has been employed in Kansas City.

Miss Harness was honored at a shower Friday afternoon given by Mrs. Harness and Mrs. Will Twaddle at the Twaddle home. Guests included schoolmates.

Mitchell-Clayton; Heckman-Loch

In a double wedding ceremony in the Memorial Chapel of the Presbyterian church in Santa Barbara, California, on January 18, Miss Marjorie Mitchell became the bride of Sergeant Ralph Clayton of Camp Cooke, California, and Miss Ruth Margery Heckman became the bride of Corporal Robert Harold Loch, also of Camp Cooke. The attendants were Corporal and Mrs. C. D. Dowden of Maryville.

Sergeant and Mrs. Clayton and Corporal Loch are all former students of the College.

Kraus-Shannon

Miss Ethelyn Kraus, daughter of Mrs. Lydia Kraus of Oakland, Calif., and J. W. Shannon, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Moore of Maryville, were married January 23 at the chapel at Mills College in Oakland. The double ring ceremony was performed in the presence of immediate relatives and friends.

Mr. Shannon was graduated from the College where he received his A. B. degree and he received a B. S. degree in agriculture from the University of California. The past fourteen months he has been with the U. S. engineering department on the Pan-American highway in Managua, Nicaragua.

Mrs. Shannon was graduated from the University of California and majored in decorative arts. Mr. and Mrs. Shannon are both active in the University of California Masonic club.

Mr. and Mrs. Shannon arrived in Maryville, January 30, to visit Mr. and Mrs. Moore. They left Saturday to visit his father and sister in St. Joseph and brother in Texas before going to Denver, where he will be assigned with the Bureau of Reclamation in Texas or California.

Announces Engagement

Mrs. Orval Anderson of Flint, Mich., announces the engagement of her daughter, Alyce Marie Browne, to Naval Aviation Cadet Eugene W. French, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. French of Maryville.

Miss Browne is attending St. Mary's school of nursing at Rochester, Minnesota. She was graduated from the Maryville school in 1942 and attended the College one year.

Aviation Cadet French was graduated from the Maryville high school and also attended the College. Prior to enlisting in the navy, he was employed in the North American Bomber plant at Kansas City. He is stationed at Hutchinson, Kansas.

Stalcup-Held

Miss LaVona Maxine Stalcup, daughter of Mrs. Effie Stalcup of San Jose, Calif., was married January 18 to Sgt. Milton Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Reid of Alta Vista, Kas.

Mrs. Reid, who attended the College in Maryville, taught for several years in the Holt county schools.

Miss Madera Is Named Principal at Stanberry

Miss Amelia Madera, a graduate of the College and an instructor in English in the College for two summers, has been named principal of the Stanberry school by the board of education. She has been an English instructor in the Stanberry high school for several years.

Miss Madera succeeds Karl Akers, another graduate of the College, who became acting superintendent after the resignation of Superintendent Lawrence A. Zelliff, still another graduate of the College.

Two Music Groups Give Maryville High Assembly

Two organizations of the Music Department of the College presented the assembly program at Maryville High School at 10:20 o'clock Friday, February 4. Those organizations participating were the Women's Vocal Ensemble and the Violin Quartet.

The Women's Ensemble presented two groups of songs. "When Children Pray" by Beatrice Fenner and "The Lord's Prayer" by Albert H. Malotte constituted the first group. The second group included "One Alone" from the "Desert Song," and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes."

The Violin Quartet also played two groups of songs. The first included "Ave Verum" by Mozart and "Minuet" by Mozart-Hoffman; the second was made up of "On Wings of Song" and "The Swallows" by Serradell-Coburn.

Frances Pfander, soprano, pupil of Mrs. Hazel E. Carter, sang "Vivante," Lewis Amant, violinist, of the Navy V-12 unit, played "Ave Maria" by Schubert. Miss Betty Lou McPherson accompanied both soloists at the piano.

Dr. DeJarnette presided at the assembly, which is presented annually by the Music Department. Misses Marian J. Kerr and Miss Ruth Nelson of the department were also present.

with more, he replied nonchalantly that it made no difference as he already had enough—all part of the show.

As no musical program is complete without its Frank Sinatra, the Navy presented Joe Bouzek as their. He sang "All or Nothing at All," the Sinatra favorite. Deviating somewhat from the mere fun of the show was the piano solo, "Return of the Robins," played by Jim Erickson.

Donald Duck Makes Hit.
One of the highlights of the "Happy Hour" was Roger Davis's imitation of Donald Duck given in the fitting shy and embarrassed manner. So well did he do it that the audience called him back for more.

The last number of the show before the finale was a version of "Pistol Packin' Mama." Five men, each representing a division of the College personnel, sang tributes to these people. Roger Davis represented the V-12 men. Mr. Fuller the Navy Chiefs, Lieutenant Albert Fagetti the Navy officers, Glenn Layme the faculty, and Russell King the civilian students.

"Star Spangled Banner."
The finale was the thrilling and impressive part of the show. The audience heard a whistle and then was electrified into attention as approximately one hundred sailors stood up at the back of the auditorium. They marched down the two middle aisles to the stage, some on up the side steps; where they stood at attention before the flag as Leiland Flincey sang "The Star Spangled Banner." The color guard is the one that is used every Saturday at inspection. Darrell Wright was the flag bearer and Charles Reynolds and John Warden attendants.

The "Happy Hour" was planned and staged by Chief Specialist Daniel C. Shura with the help of Chief Specialists Fred Croce and David Fuller. The band was directed by Yeoman Jack Budnick. Approximately one hundred and twenty sailors took part in the show.

Verlin Young Is at Notre Dame
Aviation Cadet Verlin E. Young, U. S. N. R., has been transferred from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station to Notre Dame, where he will attend midshipman's school. He is a former student of the College and took his basic flying training here at the local airport.

Clarence Culver Says His Work Is Exciting

Private Clarence E. Culver writes that if anyone likes excitement he should be working with him. He is working in the Psychiatric Ward of the hospital at Camp Maxey, Texas, and has charge of thirty-three patients.

Private Culver is in the A. S. T. E. and hopes to be sent to school within the next two weeks. He has twenty hours to earn before October at which time he will enter the Medical College at Iowa University. He said that it would be a dream, because then he would be only ninety miles from home with seven days off every three months, thus making a visit home possible. So far in his fourteen months of service his furlough has been eliminated.

He expressed the wish that he might have been able to finish his work here at the College. He is glad that he took certain courses, though some of them are not required for his medical work. At the top of the list he puts Humanities. He said, "I can't understand why some students don't try any harder, but things are so much different from what they used to be. Sometimes you stop and wonder what is the use, but there always seems to be something that keeps you going. You often wonder why you won't fall out of a 35 mile hike when you can hardly place one foot in front of the other, but when you do get through, something inside says, 'Well, I am proud of what I did today.'"

Private Culver enjoys receiving the Northwest Missourian, he says, for it puts him back into a normal world again.

Tracy E. Dale Serves in World Wars One and Two

Captain Tracy E. Dale, on leave from his position as superintendent of schools in St. Joseph, to serve in the allied military government division of the army, is now at Camp Reynolds, Pennsylvania, according to an article in the St. Joseph News-Press, awaiting further orders.

Captain Dale, who is a graduate of the College, had completed a month's training at Camp Custer, Michigan, before he was transferred to the Pennsylvania camp.

The name of Tracy E. Dale appears on the Honor Roll at the College made for the men who served in the World War One. It now appears on the Honor Roll for World War Two.

Marvin Gench Runs Into Friends Unexpectedly

The story goes like this: Marvin Gench, with the Medical Replacement Training Center, Camp Barkley, Texas, was entertaining his wife, who was visiting him in Texas during the Christmas holidays. They had gone to breakfast with a friend at a hotel and had decided to go to church, as it was Sunday morning. Seeing a beautiful church in the distance, they decided to attend services there.

When they entered the church, Mr. Gench says they found it one of the loveliest churches he has ever seen. "The choir came in and we were about to sing," he adds, "when I looked the choir over for the first time. I almost fell out of the seat, for who should be singing but Merrill Ostrum and his wife, Charlene (Barnes). They did not see us during the service; so it was quite a reunion that we had back in the choir room. In fact, I suspect it could have been heard all over the church. Well, we had the whole day together and a fine time was had by all."

Howard Madden Visits Enroute to Notre Dame

Howard Lowell Madden, who left the College in the fall of 1942 to enter the service, is now a second class yeoman. On his visit to the College last week he said that he had seen experience in a good many places since he left here.

Yeoman Madden trained at Hutchinson, Kansas, has been at Treasure Island, has been on a ship, and has done patrol duty. He volunteered for submarine duty with the Pacific fleet. He was assigned to a submarine. He was sent back by plane. He is now at Notre Dame for midshipman training.

Those in Service

Kenneth Crawford, Flier, Is Reported Missing

A letter from Mrs. W. R. Crawford of Marshall, Missouri, brings the news that her son, Kenneth Crawford, a former student of the College has been reported missing in action since November 13, 1943.

It was the intention of Kenneth Crawford to return to college to finish his work for his degree. The war came, and he enlisted in the Air Corps in the fall of 1941. He trained for a navigator, and on September 2, 1943, with a crew of ten young men, departed in a four-engine B24 bomber for England.

On November 26, his parents received a telegram from the War Department telling them that he was missing in action. No further word has been received, though his mother is hopeful that he may be a prisoner and some day return home.

Dick Shroat Gets Into Basketball Games Again

Corporal Richard Shroat, according to his wife, Helen Hester Shroat, is located at Lowery Field, Denver, Colorado. He is in the air corps, physical training department.

Corporal Shroat has a full program in physical education and is in the midst of the basketball season. He is also playing basketball again, a member of the post team, made up of non-commissioned officers from the permanent party personnel.

Mrs. Shroat went into professional Girl Scouting when Mr. Shroat went into the army. She worked in St. Joseph until June, when she went to Milwaukee Downer College, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, to take her first Girl Scout professional course. Upon completing the course, she came back to St. Joseph, where she is now executive secretary.

Mrs. Shroat, in a letter to Miss Winburn, says that another former student, Miss Sally Bonham, is working at Lowery Field in the Quartermaster's Depot. She says, also, that she and Corporal Shroat saw J. Glaze Baker, and his wife, the former Miss Betty Tarpley, in Denver on Mrs. Shroat's visit in August to her husband, Mr. Baker. She says, in an air cadet stationed at Buckley Field.

Ensign King Commends Educational Program

Buster L. King, a former student of the College, is now an ensign in the United States Naval Reserve and is stationed at the naval air station at Lakehurst, New Jersey.

Ensign King, who was a school man before going into the Navy, says that he is greatly impressed with the educational program that is available to all service men, through which they may get credit towards a high school diploma or a college degree. "It is surprising," he says, "how many men have not had a high school education, and how eager they are to attain that goal. I have kept in touch with the program through the educational officer, and I find that a very large percent of the men, both enlisted and officers, have taken advantage of the program."

See Launching of "Missouri"

Lieutenant Colonel Edward V. Condon, a former student of the College, and his son Edward, Jr., of Washington, D. C., attended the launching of the Battleship "Missouri" in company with the Senator Harry Truman party and saw Miss Margaret Truman christen the ship. Senator Truman was Lieutenant Colonel Condon's battery commander in World War I.

Lieutenant Culver Manages Special Service Programs

Lieutenant Wallace Culver, a graduate of the College, is now Special Service Officer of a battalion stationed at Camp Blanding, Florida. His work involves entertainment for the men, in an athletic and a musical way, and general morale building.

As an example of what he does in music, Lieutenant Culver conducts a symphony hour every Tuesday night. He says that the night he gave a recorded program, including Tschalkowsky's 6th Symphony he had about twenty men present.

In a letter received in Maryville, the latter part of January, Lieutenant set down some figures he has gained from a questionnaire which had gone out to 1200 men from Missouri, Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa, and a few from Texas, Oklahoma, and Minnesota. Eighty-five per cent of the men said the war with Germany would end this year. Seventy-eight per cent declared it to be their conviction that the United States, Russia, Great Britain, and China would continue post-war collaboration in harmony. Eighty-two per cent said that Roosevelt would be re-elected if he runs again; sixty per cent said that Wilkie would not again be Roosevelt's opponent. Forty-two per cent placed Roosevelt as the most important world figure in 1943. Stalin coming in second with twenty-five per cent of the votes.

George Walter Allen's Memories Cling to "Y"

"My finest memories of S. T. C.," writes George Walter Allen, "naturally cling around the 'Y,' the old Gospel Team, and the faculty men, like Mr. Cauffman and Dr. Dildine who sponsored them." The former member of the YMCA sends his regards to the present "Y," and wishes the organization success. "The 'Y' must be strong in days like these," he says, "to serve the era following this dreadful war; the post-war problems will be many."

Mr. Allen, who has been in the army for three years, having left Maryville with Battery C, is now a technical sergeant located at Camp Cooke, California. He says that his brother Bob is a second lieutenant and located in England.

Referring to the fine record of men from the College who have gone into service, Mr. Allen adds, "We are encouraged by those of you back home who buy Bonds, ration your food, think of us, write letters, and pray for us."

Cadet Pauline Peel Gets Nurse's Cap January 28

Cadet Pauline Peel, of the Student Nurse Cadet Corps, received her nurse's cap Friday morning, January 28. Forty-two girls received caps in the capping ceremony. Cadet Peel has been assigned floor duty in the hospital. According to the word received by a member of the Northwest Missourian staff, she enjoys her work very much.

Cadet Peel attended the College last year, and joined the Cadet Corps in September, 1943. She is stationed in Des Moines, Iowa.

Mrs. William Person, the former Miss Clara Lippman, is visiting Ensign Person, who is completing his indoctrination course in the navy at Tucson, Arizona. She will also visit her sister, Mrs. Boyd Watson, the former Miss Elizabeth Lippman, and Lieutenant Watson at Hobbs, New Mexico.

Have a "Coke" = A thousand miles is not too far to come

...or being friendly with a Chinese cadet

Chinese flyers here in America for training have found that so simple a phrase as "Have a Coke" speaks friendship in any tongue. East, west, north, south, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes, — has become the happy bond between people of good will.

Olathe Clippers Clip Bearcats

Experienced Navy Team
Downs Maryville Group;
Their 15th Win.

Olathe, Kansas, Navy Clippers, a group of old heads at the basketball game who still can move with the zip of a kid, tagged the Bearcats 40 to 23 January 31, on the Bearcat floor for their fifteenth straight win and their second over the Bearcats this season.

Self, the former Baker University star, was as adept at hitting the moshes as in his collegiate days and led the visitors with 14 points. Meanwhile, Moore, guard, was the only Bearcat who could find the goal. He got five field goals, mostly on long range shots. With a free throw Moore was high-point Bearcat scorer.

The Clippers started off with two quick buckets by Howey and Self. This didn't dismay the youthful Bearcats who tied the score on shots by Coker and Borg. Borg stole the ball to dribble for a set-up. Thomas broke the ice for a 2-point for the Clippers and from that point on the Navy team never was headed, building up a comfortable margin of 20 to 11 at half-time.

The Navy gradually pulled away in the second half from a nine-point lead to more than double the score as Coach Ryland Milner sent in all the Bearcats who were suited.

The box score:

Bearcats Win Easily Over Bobcats of Peru

The Maryville Bearcats held the Peru Teachers scoreless for the first seven minutes and then went February 2 to win the basketball game 35 to 20.

Behind a tight defense that bottled up Peru, the Bearcats drove to a 22 to 12 lead at the half.

Gordon Ackerman, Peru's ace forward, went out in the second half with an injured ankle.

Corken, forward of the visitors, was high scorer with twelve points. Jake Ward, with eight, was high for Peru.

Three Groups of Books Are in Library Display

A display of recently published books received by the library in the past few weeks has been set up in the cases on first floor of the library. The books are in three groups: education, the Negro, other nations. In the first group are Liberal Education by Mark Van Doren; Education at the Crossroads by Jacques Maritain, leading French philosopher; The Country School by Iman Elsie Schatzmann; and Our Young People by Dorothy Canfield Fisher.

In the group of books about and by Negroes are New World A-Coming by Roi Attley, a life in America prize book; For My People by Margaret Walker, a young Negro poetess; Brown America, Story of a tenth of the nation, by Edwin R. Embree. In the last group are Rio Grande to Cape Horn by Carleton Beals, My Native Land (Yugoslavia) by Louis Adamic, A History of Poland by O. Halecki, All We Have and All We Are by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, a group of speeches and messages made since Pearl Harbor; We Chinese Women by Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, speeches and messages made in the first year of the United Nations union.

I. R. C. Plans Program
The International Relations Club held its regular meeting on February 1, at which time a tentative schedule of the subjects for future meetings was discussed and organized. The tentative schedule covers the meetings for the remainder of the semester and the entire spring semester. The proposed program covers a variety of subjects and includes films, slides, and talks on many different problems facing the world.

THE OLD MASTER
William MacColm Dickey, the gangling Arkansan who has been a fixture as the New York Yankee catcher for fifteen years, has been selected as the player of the year by the New York Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association.

Dickey is thirty-seven years old and is a father. He will report to Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yanks in March for his seventeenth campaign with the Bombers.

During this career he has established a major league mark for catching 100 or more games in thirteen consecutive seasons and in addition holds numerous fielding and batting marks.

While in the Yankee uniform, his only major league connection, he has played in eight world series and has represented the American League in actual play in seven all-star games. In addition, he has been selected on the Sporting News' all-major league team six times.

BASKETBALL VALUABLE
The value of basketball in the physical training program of the armed forces cannot be overestimated. All over the country, naval cadets, army cadets, and the remainder of the men enrolled in the armed service schools are participating in this great pastime.

It is remarkable that a leisure activity such as basketball can be utilized and recreated into a service, in the emergency. Such a sport is proving its worth. Its purpose is undergoing a change. It is no longer played for fun and amusement alone. Men must be able to react and respond intelligently to unfamiliar stimuli. They must be on their toes when they are on the perilous sea lanes, or on a lone patrol in enemy territory. They must be trained to respond effectively. This training will produce habit formation; such a procedure must produce good results.

And so the armed services are turning to basketball for the medium of such training.

Basketball develops stamina, quick thinking, cooperation, and sportsmanship. The game is the ace in the "hole" for our armed services. It is proving its worth in a time which sorely needs its contributions.

Head of Speech Department Develops Thesis That Able Speaker Is Able Man

That the able speaker is the able person was the thesis of Mr. John Rudin's lecture on Sunday afternoon at the Horace Mann auditorium at four o'clock. Mr. Rudin is head of the Speech department of the College.

Beginning his talk with a discussion of the place of Aristotle in any subject of rhetoric, Mr. Rudin developed his thesis under the title of "The Able Man" Concept in Rhetoric. He showed varying concepts of rhetoric until he arrived at the ethical rhetoric formulated by Aristotle, a rhetoric which he derived from the doctrine of "words with knowledge for the common good."

This doctrine, Mr. Rudin said, "is our heritage from the ancients, and the concept that the able speaker must be the able man derives from it." One section of Mr. Rudin's paper was devoted to an explanation of Aristotle's attitude toward pure logic as the only principle of rhetoric, or speech. Aristotle believed that more was necessary than mere logic, that ethical proof, too, was important; for, said he, "we believe good men more fully and more readily than others." By ethical proof, Mr. Rudin explained, Aristotle had in mind proof which arises from a man's "ethos," or character, which will induce confidence, trust and belief.

Character Is Important
Character, Mr. Rudin said, does not refer to reputation, but in the Aristotelian sense to character as it is evinced by the speaker "while he is speaking." The speaker, through his speech, must induce trust. The personal qualities which compose character, or "ethos" Mr. Rudin named broadly as intelligence, goodwill, and character, the word "character" in this second sense referring to what is broadly termed personality. To be a man of intelligence and good character, a man must have the virtues of liberality, justice, courage, temperance, magnanimity, magnificence, prudence, gentleness, and wisdom. His good will is evinced through such traits as good temper, faithfulness to friends, cleanliness and neatness, minding one's own business, tactfulness, sense of humor, praising others' good qualities.

Mr. Rudin made much of Aristotle's idea that the audience judges the "ethos" or intelligence, character, and goodwill of the speaker while he speaks by the choices which he makes. He went on to show how choices must continually be made by one who would speak effectively.

Modern Philosophy of Speech
Turning from the "able man" idea of Aristotle, Mr. Rudin said that the modern "able man" philosophy of speech is not limited to the few as in ancient days but seeks to provide speech education to all students; is not limited to the few who use speech skills in public life, but seeks to provide for all the situations of life. The purpose, however, remains the same, to influence human conduct; and the same qualities of character and personality considered essential in Aristotle's day are indispensable today.

The teacher of speech continued his lecture in showing how the fundamentals of speech as they are being taught today grow definitely out of the "able man" philosophy. The student is taught to make choices; his training is not to make an exhibitionist of him, but to make him able to make wise choices. One of the formulations of the philosophy, Lew Sartre, writes: "Consciously a speaker expresses his ideas; unconsciously he reveals his character, his personality, his emotional state at the moment, and his attitude toward himself and his audience. In short, a speaker cannot express himself without revealing himself." To this Mr. Rudin added, "The more able the speaker, for he will tend to win a favorable response."

The speaker closed his lecture with the remark that able speakers of today are able speakers because they choose to communicate important ideas sincerely, they seek a worthy response, they strive to develop the intrinsic worth as persons which is necessary for effective speech.

Central Mules Beat Bearcats

Warrensburg Teachers Use
Height to Win Game
Played Here.

Taking the initial tip-off and controlling the ball at the backboard and on jumps, the visiting Warrensburg State Teachers college Mules combined advantages in height and tricky ball passing to slip through the defenses of the Maryville Teachers College Bearcats for a 43 to 31 victory here January 27, their sixth win in seven games this season.

The Mules had an additional advantage at the foul line, connecting with 11 of the 16 gratis shots. Maryville hit only once in nine shots.

Martel, Mule forward, scored eleven points in the first half and his teammates chalked up an additional eighteen, to lead the Bearcats 20 to 10 at the halftime whistle. Martel also took high individual scoring honors, making six baskets and two foul shots.

Coach Ryland Milner used sixteen Bearcats in a futile attempt to check the Mules' offensive, while Coach White, coaching on a 10-point lead, sent in a complete team shortly after the start of the second half and then sent the regulars back in when the Bearcats showed signs of getting hot.

It was not that the Bearcats could get no shots. Many were heaved in the direction of the basket, but the luckless Bearcats failed to get their sights right, many of the shots rolling off the rim or missing by inches.

Brown, Bearcat forward, led the attack of the Maryville team, scoring five baskets, and ran third for individual scoring honors, with Bates, Mule guard, hitting for five baskets and a gratis shot for second place.

The Bearcats outscored the Mules 17-14 in the last half, but the 19-point halftime lead could not be erased.

Maryville was not without an offense. But the Mules, using their height and a very tight defense, stole the ball on numerous occasions, to nullify chances of the Bearcats to score.

The box score:

Eugene Field Principal Tells of Foreign Pupils

Miss Frances Holliday, principal of the Eugene Field school, talked to the Y. W. C. A., January 20, about the students from foreign countries with whom she became acquainted while in New York City two years ago. One whom she remembered particularly was a young girl from India, whose greatest wish for her native land was freedom such as the United States has.

Miss Holliday also met several refugee children who came from China, England, and Germany. The little German boy's reaction to the school here attracted her attention. He was amazed that the teacher let him do things in the classroom.

The speaker said she valued this experience of meeting people from other countries, for it gave her a better understanding of their life and ways of thinking.
